- 2003: Two-week course on statistics at the University of Essex (Summer School on Stata and regression).
- 2011: Advanced course for associate professors and professors in supervision of students and staff members.

Research Profile:

My areas of study are: 1) political theory, 2) political psychology and political sociology. More substantially, I work within the field of intergroup relations.

Ph.d. Supervision:

Co-supervisor during the period 2003–2006, 2020–2023.
Main supervisor during the period 2015–2018, 2023–2026.

Prizes:

Teacher of the year in 1998, 1999, 2002.

Referee Activities:

I have been reviewer for numerous journals in political science, social psychology, political psychology, intergroup relations and sociology (e.g., British Journal of Political Science, Scandinavian Political Studies, Political Studies, West European Politics, Political Psychology, Social Psychology Quarterly, Social Forces, Ethnic and Migration Studies and International Journal of Comparative Sociology). I also do reviewer jobs for Danish journals and book publishers. I review between 5–10 papers a year for international journals.

Conferences:

Attending primarily ISPP (the association of political psychology) and Midwest (political science) on a regular basis.

International Contacts:

Thomas F. Pettigrew, Professor of Social Psychology, the University of California, Santa Cruz.

David Marsh, Professor of Political Sociology at the Australian National University's (ANU) College of Arts and Social Sciences.

Other Relevant Activities:

1989–2000: Member of an editorial board (The Danish Journal GRUS).

2003–2006: External examiner (Censor) for educations in sociology at university level.

2012: Guest editor for the Danish journal Politica.
