

Alisha S. M. Hall

PhD student in psychiatric epidemiology

Email: alishasmhall@clin.au.dk

LinkedIn: <https://www.linkedin.com/in/alishasmhall/>

ORCID-iD: 0000-0002-1684-6663

Experience

since 03/2023

PhD student, Department of Clinical Medicine, Aarhus University,
Aarhus, Denmark

PhD project: Genetics of borderline personality disorder and its associations with other psychiatric disorders and adverse childhood experiences

02/2024 – 07/2024

Visiting PhD student, Department of Medical Epidemiology and Biostatistics, Karolinska Institute, Stockholm, Sweden

03/2021 – 02/2023

Student research assistant, Genomic Statistics und Bioinformatics,
Institute for Medical Biostatistics, Epidemiology und Informatics,
Mainz, Germany

09/2016 – 02/2023

Student research assistant, Genetic Epidemiology of Psychiatry,
Central Institute for Mental Health, Medical Faculty Mannheim, University of Heidelberg, Mannheim, Germany

07/2020 – 08/2020

Internship, Genomics of Complex Diseases, Max-Planck-Institut of Psychiatry, Munich, Germany

08/2015 – 07/2016

Civil service year, SRH Klinikum Karlsbad Langensteinbach, Karlsbad, Germany

01/2015 – 05/2015

Peer Mentor, DIY Diagnostics Research Stream, Freshman Research
Initiative, University of Texas at Austin, Austin, Texas, USA

Education

10/2020 – 02/2023

M. Sc. Epidemiology, Johannes Gutenberg University Mainz, Mainz, Germany

09/2016 – 07/2020

B. Sc. Psychology, University of Mannheim, Mannheim, Germany

08/2018 – 01/2019

Summer Research and Culture Program + Exchange semester,
National Taiwan University, Taipei, Taiwan

08/2013 – 06/2015

Plan II Interdisciplinary Honors Program & Pre-medical studies,
University of Texas at Austin, Austin, Texas, USA

06/2013

High School Diploma, McKinney Boyd High School, McKinney, Texas, USA

Research interests

Psychiatry | Epidemiology | Psychiatric genetics | Register-based research | Personality disorders